Important information about your account

We recently announced changes to our services and fees to take effect on June 1, 2015. These included changes to the types of transactions that would be counted as debit transactions. We listened closely to client feedback, and after careful consideration, have decided that the following will be considered as free monthly debit transactions if applicable to your account:

- > RBC Royal Bank mortgage and loan payments (pre-authorized or non-scheduled) from RBC personal banking or savings accounts
- > RBC Royal Bank investment contributions (pre-authorized or non-scheduled) from RBC banking accounts
- > RBC Royal Bank credit card payments (pre-authorized/self-serve) from RBC savings accounts

This means if you have an account<sup>1</sup> with a monthly limit of free debit transactions, the above transactions will not count towards your monthly debit limit and so, you will not be charged for those transactions. If you have an account with unlimited debit transactions<sup>2</sup>, these changes don't impact you.

If you have any questions regarding the changes or would like to discuss your banking services with us, please visit your local branch or contact us online or by phone and we'll be happy to review your accounts with you.
